

GALIUM BOREALE OPERABLE ROOF

The shape of the roof is adapted from a famous inland flower called Galium Boreale. Also, the installation of the flower petal roof is operable and has a sensor that could open/close based on the sensor that could adapt the movement of the northern light. The entire installation is protected by a variety of sensors which open the units in the event that conditions change.

