

sustainable solutions

The Longhouse generates power from solar panels fixed on the north side of the roof structure. The expansive profile of the roof canopy collects significant rain and snow water, which is then filtered and stored in a cistern for use within the Longhouse, small houses and stables. To protect the delicate nature of the surrounding wetlands, all structures are serviced by composting toilets. The abundant geothermal energy provides heat.

